About the workshop

The aim of the workshop is to provide a working knowledge of Australian oil and gas law, which will be valuable to lawyers, government officials, resource company personnel and others who seek to improve their expertise in oil and gas law.

Plenary sessions in the form of lectures interspersed with class discussion are supplemented by small-group sessions examining in greater detail topical problems.

The workshop will be led by Professor John Chandler. Professor Chandler has over 40 years’ experience in the resources industry, focusing particularly on the development and financing of large projects. He will be joined by leading specialists in oil and gas law drawn from private practice, government, and in-house counsel.

Academic sessions will run from 8.45am or 9am to 5pm or 5.30pm each day in the Law Faculty, UWA campus.

Continuing Professional Development

Full attendance entitles a legal practitioner to claim six Continuing Professional Development (CPD) points. See the short course program for details.
