5 February 2015

Re: Move of University of Western Australia Law Review to Online Publication

This is to notify you that from this year (volume 39) the University of Western Australia Law Review will be published online. The first online issue will have a public and international law focus and will be available in June.

It will be available gratis at http://www.law.uwa.edu.au/research/uwalr.

In all other respects the University of Western Australia Law Review will be the same as previous issues providing a forum for the airing of articles on topics of current legal significance and practical notes on Australian case and statute law.

It will include articles on a broad range of topics of national and international importance, but also encourages articles with a Western Australian focus.

Rigorous editorial standards will continue to be applied by the University of Western Australia Law Review, including a double-blind refereeing process.

We look forward to your continued association with us.

Yours sincerely,

Michael Blakeney and Aviva Freilich
Staff Editors